

MYA GRAY enters the room.

MYA
Mr. Maxwell. Did I come at a bad time?

Dedric straightens his tie and disposition.

DEDRIC
(smiling)
No, Ms. Gray come on in.

Mya walks in the door. Dedric checks her out as she walks into the office, and he closes the door.

DEDRIC (CONT'D)
So how can I help you Ms. Gray?

MYA
Well as I'm sure you know because of the pandemic, the economy hasn't been the best here in Detroit and a lot of people are losing their homes.

DEDRIC
Yeah I keep hearing about that. So what does that have to do with you?

MYA
Well the Stacey Kline Foster Care agency is county funded. And with some many foreclosed homes there's a huge decrease in the property tax money that has been received.
(frustrated, emotional)
I have to raise all this money within the next few days or all these wonderful kids will be out on the streets. Will you help?

DEDRIC
So what's in it for me?

MYA
Well it's great PR for you and the firm. Not to mention it's a great opportunity to help out some less fortunate children.

DEDRIC
(interrupting)
I think you misunderstood my question. What are YOU going to do for me?

Dedric takes off his suit jacket. Mya is apprehensive, but she continues listening.

CONTINUED:

DEDRIC (CONT'D)

You're trying to raise how much in donations?

MYA

Twenty thousand.

DEDRIC

I COULD write you a check for twenty five thousand before you walk out that door. Hell I'd call it a tax write off. But you would need to make it worth my while.

(uncomfortable)

And how do you suppose I do that?

Dedric stares at Mya intensely.

DEDRIC

Take off your shirt.

MYA

Excuse me?

DEDRIC

Take off your shirt then come over here.... you wanna help all your wonderful kids to stay off the streets well here's your opportunity.

Mya is totally taken back by what he's saying to her. She knows what he's saying is completely immoral and unethically, but she also knows that time is running out for her kids.

Against her morals and beliefs she hesitantly removes her shirt. Then unfastens her bra putting her perfect breast on full display. Willing to risk it all to save these kids she tosses it to the side and walks toward him like an animal hunting her pray.

MYA

How do you want it?
